

Title of the Prior Art

Japanese Published Patent Application No. 52-67741

Date of Publication: June 4, 1977

Concise Statement of Relevancy

Translation of Claim

A circuit breaker apparatus which is characterized in being provided with an apparatus which cuts off one of power supplying paths by cutting off of an overcurrent responsive conduction interrupting element such as a fuse in response to failure of a load which has become connected to AC power supply, and further being provided with an apparatus which cuts off the other of the power supplying paths in response to cutting off of the overcurrent responsive conduction interrupting element.